

OrthoPediatrics Corp. Expands Specialty Bracing Portfolio with Two New Product Launches

Nov 13, 2025

WARSAW, Ind., Nov. 13, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- OrthoPediatrics Corp. ("OrthoPediatrics" or the "Company") (Nasdaq: KIDS), a company focused exclusively on advancing the field of pediatric orthopedics, today announced the expansion of its OrthoPediatrics Specialty Bracing ("OPSB") portfolio with two new products launches, the PediHip™ Rigid Brace and PediHip™ Modular Abduction Systems. The company now has 31 systems within its OPSB division.

Developed in collaboration with globally recognized pediatric hip experts, the PediHip™ Rigid Brace and PediHip™ Modular Abduction System are intended for the treatment of Developmental Dysplasia of the Hip (DDH) and post-operative stabilization in pediatric patients ages three years and younger. These two new products will greatly enhance the current options to treat this condition, ultimately benefiting the patient and parent.

Joe Hauser, OrthoPediatrics Specialty Bracing division President, commented, "We have been focused on organic new product development and are thrilled to announce these two new launches as we continue to strengthen our OPSB portfolio. The PediHip™ portfolio showcases our commitment to partnering with providers to advance care for children. In combination with the Trauma & Deformity portfolio, including the newly launched 3P Hip System, OrthoPediatrics can now provide treatment solutions for the entire pediatric hip care continuum."
